SCIENCE SAYS SKINS CAN LOOK younger again.

and women nation-wide add their testimony that Endocrine, the new, revolutionary endocrine cream—with its contained ACTIVOL—works wonders in making the skin of face, neck and hands look and feel younger again... the reason lies in ACTIVOL, a counterpart of a natural bodily substance, the decrease of which frequently causes women's skins to dry and age. No other cream contains this precious ingredient, yet a month's supply of Endocrine costs only 11¢ a day... Ask at our Cosmetic Counter for your copy of "What Users Think of Endocrine". And don't forget women must look their youthful best in these days of wartime stress and strain.

Mrs. Ross Cuts Cake as Mint Observes 150th Anniversary

The Bureau of the Mint celebrated its 150th birthday anniversary yesterday. It has come a long way since one soldier with pistol and dagger and one fierce dog named Nero stood guard over the young Nation's new mint at Philadelphia.

Now 200 guards watch over eight sprawling mints, assay offices and bullion depositories in all parts of the country.

The first Government agency to be set up by the new Congress, the Mint has also been one of the first to be headed by a woman. It's director for the last nine years, Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, yesterday cut a birthday cake for the 50 local Mint employees in their recently assigned offices in the Washington Building.

George Washington lived a couple of doors down from the Mint when he was President of the United States, with its capital in Philadelphia. He used to walk by and watch progress on construction of the building. When the Mint needed silver to make its first dollars because no gold and silver one had yet been discovered here, the President gave some of his silver plate.

Only 13 people worked for the Mint then, turning out the country's first nickel—a "half dime." Gold and silver bought from other countries was hauled by two oxen to be melted for United States coins. The motto "E Pluribus Unum" made its appearance on American coinage in 1795. "In God We Trust" was added during the Civil War.

Now employing 2,400 people, the mint made a steadily increasing number of coins during its first 125 at various times for China, Panama, Costa Rica, Cuba, Nicaragua, San Salvador, Venezuela and other countries.

With no private competitor to draw them away and no other place to be trained for their peculiar trade, workers grow old in the service of the mint.

"They are as dedicated to their work," Mrs. Ross said yesterday, "as though they owned the gold themselves."

The mint has plenty of trouble with its precious product. All shipments of gold must be tested. Since the price of gold went up and women searched trunks for old gold trinkets, all the metal they found must go through the mint refinery. Coin counterfeiting, watched by the secret service, is made more difficult with the milling, or pressing of tiny lines, around the rim of each coin.
